SCOTLAND'S THEATRE IN THE HILLS

THE QUESTORS THEATRE

FIRST PERFORMANCE

April 17th, 1971

"I once pointed out to Orton that his representatives of oppressive paternalism were modelled on the three butts of the Commedia dell'Arte: Pantaloon (a decrepit, greedy lecher), the Doctor (a fake and a charlatan), and the Captain (a braggart and a coward). He assured me that the resemblance was accidental . . . Common to all Orton plays is the Harlequin figure of the cherubic amoral youth who retains a true innocence because he was brought up to accept the corrupt values of society".

FRANK MARCUS.

"In our time various people throughout the world are trying to create a new form of theatre which will extend its range to the utmost. In spite of enormous differences between these efforts, we are all aiming at a festive theatre, a tightly organized ceremonial. Tragedy and the Punch-and-Judy show, poetry and vulgarity, comedy and melodrama, love and eroticism, the happenings and theories of total theatre, bad taste and extreme aesthetic refinement, sacrilege and sanctity, executions and paeans to life, the sordid and the sublime quite naturally find their place in this festive act . . . "

FERNANDO ARRABAL.
