THE QUESTORS THEATRE

FIRST PERFORMANCE

Saturday, 8th April, 1972

“ I would urge anyone who wishes to produce this play to do so, if at all possible, on an open stage”.

—John Arden.

“We would probably most of us have some reservations about experiments conducted on unwilling or unsuspecting subjects. We would also probably incline to think that such matters were not the ideal subject for broadly grotesque comedy. And yet Arden here cheerfully offers us precisely that . . . A ‘pantomime’, he originally subtitled it”.

—John Russell Taylor.

“I’m an old lady
And don’t have long to live.
I’m only strong enough to take
Not to give, No time left to give.
I want to drink, I want to eat,
I want my shoes taken off my feet.
I want to talk but not to walk
Because if I walk, I have to know
Where it is I want to go.
I want to sleep but not to dream
I want to play and win every game.
To live with love but not to love.
The world to move but me not move
I want I want for ever and ever
The world to work, the world to be clever.
Leave me be, but don’t leave me alone.
That’s what I want. I’m a big round stone siting in the middle of a thunderstorm . . .”

—Mrs. Phineus.
