The director is particularly grateful for the contribution from the Ealing and Greenford District Male Voice Choir of Castrated Choirs under their conductor Graham Barnes.

The music in the programme is played on a variety of instruments including violin, oboe, saxophone, zither, pan-pipes, two different types of pastoral flute, a cymbalom (a trapezium-shaped instrument on which the strings are hammered by sticks muted with cotton-wool) and a taragot (originally this was a wooden trumpet but it was given a saxophone mouthpiece in 1900)

TONY CHAPMAN and LEIGH SCHEINDLINGER appear by arrangement with SHIRK PRODUCTIONS.
