

DIRECTOR'S INTRODUCTION

A few years ago at Waterman's Arts Centre, Brentford, I went to a talk by Bill Forsyth about his film, Gregory's Girl. He told how it had its beginning when he asked a Glasgow Youth Theatre if they would workshop some scenes for a film with him. Gradually he began to film them, as and when he could scrape together the funding. So we now return it to the theatre where it began.

Gregory's Girl was chosen as something to make us laugh, but with the depth and true characterisation for young actors to bite into. Those who have seen the film will find we've gone a very different way, the theatre way, with a London setting, some new scenes (as the author invites us to do), some new visual jokes, graphics, light effects, and a song or two that you may recognise.
