

MAKERS' MR RIGHT is presented as an affectionate and appreciative tribute to the late David Price, whose valued contribution to Queens Theatre is greatly missed. The cast includes Mike Green, who, as a first cousin to David Price's friend of many years, is playing Maggie's lovable old dad.

A witty humour and touching wisdom of the pleasure and pain of establishing and maintaining human relationships, the play unfolds in a series of dramatic vignettes set in the following locations:

The concourse of a busy railway station - Katy's cafe - A shopping street - Robert's office - The park - In Wendy's car - Robert's office at the supermarket - Maggie's flat - A wine bar - Maggie's flat - Wendy's flat - Maggie's flat - The concourse of the station

ABOUT THE PLAY . . . .

MAGGIE'S MR RIGHT is presented as an affectionate and appreciative tribute to the late David Price, whose valued contribution to Questors Theatre is greatly missed. The cast includes Mike Green, who, as a final salute to David Price, a friend of many years, is playing Maggie's lovable old dad.

A wryly humorous and touching exploration of the pleasures and pains of establishing and maintaining human relationships, the play unfolds in a series of dramatic vignettes set in the following locations:

The concourse of a large railway station - Kitty's cafe - A shopping street - Roland's office - The park - In Wanda's car - Roland's office & the supermarket - Maggie's flat - A wine bar - Maggie's flat & Wanda's flat - Maggie's flat - The concourse of the station
