

The Questors Theatre

Presents a QExtra Event

Monday 6 June 2022

This production was conceived in a notoriously rude Chinese restaurant in Leicester Square around Christmas time. Having recently left the youth theatre it became clear that there was space to create an opportunity for the younger members to explore different aspects of theatre. As such, I and my fellow directors reached out to the new writing group in order to try and create that opportunity. Stuart Watson graciously found us some writers and the process began. Each writer took a different approach to the task. James worked alongside Marija to develop a piece that was built around the cast while David crafted multiple pieces for Quinn and me to choose from. A special thanks to Lauren Harper for brainstorming ideas alongside the other writers before unfortunately having to step down. The three casts have been incredible in not only supporting us as new directors but in committing themselves to a new project during a busy time at such short notice. I hope this project serves to demonstrate the untapped abilities within Questors, both in the potential of its upcoming youth and the variety of capabilities across the broad membership. Disintegration is the building of a bridge within the theatre that seeks to increase visibility and co-operation. This evening is meant to be the beginning of what can come from experimenting with all the theatre has to offer. After this 2 month endeavour I hope this one step is taken on to become something greater. On behalf of all of us involved with this production, thank you for coming and we hope you enjoy the show!
